HAPPENINGS IN ILLINOIS CITIES AND TOWNS ADVISES EXHIBITORS

TO PROVIDE AID FOR MINISTERS

Southern Illinois Delegates to Alton Member Re-elected Presid-Methodist General Conference Will Urge Adoption of Superannuates' Endowment Fund.

Southern Illinois representatives to the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, which opens at Los Angeles, Cal., Tuesday, May 3, will try to have incorporated in the bylaws of man. Three supervisors were placed in the church a new feature, known as the superannuates' endowment fund of the Methodist Episcopal Church. This was incorporated with that title under the The first ballot resulted; Elble, 10; Camp laws of Illinois, September 12, 1902.

The object of the fund is to provide nde-

The object of the fund is to provide adequate support for the superannuated ministers of the church, their's widows and orphans. Heretofore this has been done in various ways, principally by appropriations in the separate conferences and by special collections.

Believing these methods inadequate, other plans were formulated from time to time, but none met with a full approval. Last year booter E. W. Flegerbaum of Edwardsville perfected the plan which has been organized under the foregoing title. It was presented to the Southern Illinois Conference at Salem in September and received insqualified approval. That body recommended that it be proposed at the General Conference.

Doctor Flerenbaum, who is himself the son of a ratived minister of the Methodist Church, was chosen president. The governing board consists of five men, all hankers in Southern Illinois. Hesides the president, they are C. Elsenmeyer of Treaton, first vice president; S. M. Grabs of Litchfield, second, vice president; J. M. Mitchell of Mount Carmel, secretary, and T. S. Marshall of Salem, tronsurer.

The rules provide that any conference may become a member of the corporation. The fund is made up of voluntary contributions and becomes permanent, no part of it being subject to disbursement or division. It is invested in securities and when any contributing conference shall have $180,000 to its credit, annually thereafter the interest shall be applied to its beneficiaries by the Board of Stew-

FRANK C. LORY ARRESTED.

Klondike King" Held, Awaiting Requisition From Illinois.

Frank C. Lory, better known as the "Klondike King," was arrested yesterday afternoon at No. 5138 Wells avenue, by Special Officer McNell on a warrant which charges him with being a fugitive from justice from Danville, Iil., where, it is said, he is charged in five indictments with fraud in gold mine dealings.

Lory refused to return to Danville without requisition papers. The authorities at that piace have been notified of his arrest and an officer is expected to arrive in St. Louis to-day to take Lory in custody. According to information received from

According to information received from Danville, Lory is charged by the heirs of Daniel C. Gregg of Danville with fraudulently coming into possession of 1,500 acres of Isand in the river bottoms below that town. He secured this land, it is said, by trading gold mine stock on which he guaranteed dividends. The stock, it is said, was afterwards found to be-worthless, and Lory surrendered the farm and departed from Danville.

Lory is the man who, eighteen months ago, lost $82,500 in a fake foot race at Colorado Springs, Colo. Several days after losing the money he came to St. Louis and conferred with the police. He charged H. H. Tislow as being one of the men who secured his money, but Tislow was acquitted. Tislow later brought suit against Lory for $10,000.

TO ASSUME RISK

Chief of Fair Fire Insurance Department Says Protection Is Adequate.

Castleman Believes That by Co-Operating With Exposition, Companies May Be Brought to Terms.

According to Humphrey Castleman, Chief of the World's Fair Fire Insurance Department, exhibitors at the World's Fair who are required to pay exorbitant premiums on their insurance have only one recourse—that is, not to take out any insurance, but to assume their own risks and re-enforce the already extraordinary precautions against fire taken by the Exposition Company.

Mr. Castleman says that there is absolutely no justification for the enormous panies; that if exhibitors had combined to combat them the companies would not have persisted in charging them, and that even now, if they will refuse to take out insurance at these high rates, as the Exposition has refused, the rates will come

"More than $50,000 has been spent by the Experition Company for the preven-tion of fire within its limits," says Mr. Castleman, "Is this to count for nothing in the charges for insurance? Think of a charge of 4½ per cent to insure the lum-ber used in inclosing the River des Peres! Every precaution made is ample protec-tion against fire, and exhibitors have been shamefully treated.
"The card rates of 4 and 5 per cent on "The card rates of 4 and 5 per cent on the contents of the buildings were of

The card rates of 4 and 5 per cent on the contents of the buildings were of themselves an enormous charge, and the exacting by insurance companies of from 7 to 10 per cent for insuring the exhibits is akin to robbing the dead. There is no reason why such rates should nave been exacted. The insurance representatives in St. Loais are familiar with the risk and were willing to write all they could carry at the card rates.

"The exaction of the enormous charges came from New York and London, where at so great a distance from the risk, no doubt, such tales were circulated as to the 'fearfulness of the hazard' that the companies would not write the insurance. Fire, with all the preventions existing, is very improbable. Had the exhibitors refused to pay any rate higher than the card rate, all the insurance they needed could have been had by them at card rates.

"The risk is a good one, and the com-cand rate, all the insurance they needed could have been had by them at card rates.

"The risk is a good one, and the companies would have been glad to write it at card rates, once they were convinced that the exhibitors would not pay more than that rate. The risk is not more hazardous at card rates, and, in fact, not so much as at exorbitant rates. The precaution of every exhibitor is perfect and all are prepared to help one another, nd before they should py the rate d-manded, every exhibitor should provide his individual exhibit with buckets and barrels of water, train all of his attendants to use them in case of fire, and thus avoid being overcharged."

Mr. Castleman says that there never was an exposition at which the fire prevention arrangements were more thorough and perfect than at St. Louis. With a perfectly equipped fire department on the grounds, which at any time has available tho entire Fire Department of the city to aid it, and scores of Jefferson Guards trained in the special duty of detecting, and fighting fire, there is no reason, he says, for the overcharging to which exhibitors are being subjected by the companies.

Early in the stage of the Exposition he hibitors are being subjected by the companies.

Early in the stage of the Exposition he advised foreign expibitors to obtain their insurance at home, and they have done this, leaving plenty of insurance for domestic exhibitors at card rates.

"These card rates," said Mr. Castleman,
"were made in the interest of the insurance companies, and it can be depended upon that the situation here was thoroughly canvassed, and, too, that the rates then made were considered ample. Then why pay more?"

NEW DEPARTMENT AT WORLD'S FAIR

Accounting at the Exposition Will Be Done by Large Clerical Force.

With the near approach of the business season of the Admissions an Concessions departments, when thousands of dollars will be daily handled by the World's Fair. the organization of an accounting department of the Exposition has been arranged

F. M. Brown has been placed in charge of this important branch of the Fair, having been appointed chief accountant of the departments, and the organization of the system and office force to carry it out is now being completed.

The Accounting Department has been granted the use of half of the second floor in the north wing of the Administration building, opposite the offices of the Concessions Department and just above the offices of the Admissions Department.

Mr. Brown is said to be one of the most expert accountants in the United States, and was formerly Cleveland (O.) manager of one of the largest accounting firms of the East. His department will check all of the receipts and expenditures of the Concessions and Admissions departments, furnishing the tickets and checking up the vouchers on returns made.

As a preliminary start in the work, 6,000,000 admission tickets for Pike shows and other concessions have been ordered for delivery to the Accounting Department. During the period in which admission tickets into the grounds will be soid prior to the operation of the automatic coin turnstiles at the entrance gates the tickets of admission will also be issued from this department.

CONCESSIONS DEPARTMENT WILL EMPLOY ABOUT 600.

Good Places to Be Given Bookkeer ers, Accountants and Stenographers After Fair Opens.

The Concessions Department of the World's Fair will give employment to about 600 persons when the Exposition begins. The persons to be employed will be used in the capacity of auditors, stenographers and bookkeepers, and their sal aries will range from $60 to $125 a month. Many college men and women have applied for these positions, but John A. Wakefield, Chief of the Department of Concessions, said yesterday that no preference would be shown college students. "Everyone will be judged on his merits," said Mr. Wakefield, "and the fact that he is a student will neither assist nor injure his chances."

Mr. Wakefield says that he has several thousand applications for the 600 positions that his department will create.

STRIKE AT CHINESE PAVILION.

Carpenters Quit Because Two Mes Worked Saturday Afternoon. Just at the critical moment when work in the Chinese pavilion is being rushed to completion in anticipation of the coming of hs Imperial Highness, Prince Pu Lun, and all hands were needed to complete it, there is a strike of the workmen eral buildings in the Chinese reservation laid down their tools yesterday morning and refused to work. The cause of the walk-out was the fact that, contrary to union rules, two of the carpenters engaged in the construction work there had worked Saturday after-work there had worked Saturday afternoon.

This being a half holiday with the union, the other workmen objected and demanded the discharge of the men.
When the contractors refused this demand the men struck. The dispute had not been settled yesterday, and it is not known what disposition will be made of it. But little work remains to be done on the pavilions, the pointing and gliding being done by native artisans.

MANY DETECTIVES ARRIVE. Experts From Various Cities Will Watch for Crooks.

Detectives from all parts of the United States and many from foreign countries are arriving in St. Louis to assist the local force during the World's Fair. Among yesterday's arrivals was John Among yesterday's arrivals was John Shevlin, formerly a member of the local force, and now Chief of Police of Hot Springs. He is well acquainted with St. Louis crooks, and will remain here until after the opening day.

J. H. Ferrier, a detective from Scotland Yard, the famous London headquarters, also arrived yesterday. He is an expert on identification by means of the lines on the ball of the finger or thumb. With him are Sergeant Proctor and Operators Andrews, Sheppard and Futcher of Scotland Yard, who will guard the Queen's jubilee presents during the Fair.

FAIR APPROACHES TO BE IMPROVED

Street Commissioner Varrelmann Agrees to Drain and Pave Skinker Road Near Entrance at Once.

Relief is in sight for the marooned visiters who have attempted to gain access to the World's Fair grounds by the Administration entrance at Skinker road. Department will start to work on the improvement of that approach to the Exposition site, and before the opening day drained and paved and equipped with wide Street Commissioner Varrelmann vester Street Commissioner Varrelmann yesterday called on Director of Works Taylor and discussed with him the plans for the badly needed improvements of the World's Fair approaches. As a result of the conference, the Street Commissioner agreed to take immediate steps to make the streets adjoining the Lindell boulevard and Administration entrances fit by the opening day of the Fair.

Skinker road will be drained into the World's Fair sewer system, 109 wagon loads of macadam dumped on its muddy surface and plank sidewalks laid on either side of it from the two street-car loops to the entrance gates.

side of it from the two street-car loops to the entrance gates.

These sidewalks will be about thirty or forty feet wide.

De Baliviere avenue, from the railroad tracks to the Fair entrance, is in good shape, as the asphalt paving of the plaza at that point is nearly completed. The street north will have a macadam pavement and sidewalks.

Some amusement was created yesterday at the Administration building when it became known that the Civil Engineering Department had ordered two boats. Chief Phillipps was kept busy explaining to facetious inquirers that the boats were intended for patrol duty on the lagoons and not for use at the two main entrances of the Fair.

KINU, THE AINU BABY, MAY BE TURNING WHITE.

Youngest Member of Hairy Tribe Looks More Like Caucasian Every Day.

Is Kinu, the Ainu baby at the World's Fair, turning white? Persons in the Indian building, which is nativity.

The Ainus have a skin of copper color.

They are somewhat darker than the Japanese. When the Ainu tribe arrived in St. Louis a few weeks ago the baby Ainu was as dark as any other member of the Yesterday, however, a perceptible dif-ference in the child's complexion was no-ticed by the World's Fair officials who have her in charge.

Besides losing her Ainu complexion, Ki-nu is also losing her Ainu manners, and instead is taking on American ways for doing things. Kinu kisses her dolly. The Ainu never kisses anything, animate or in-animate. visitors have kissed Kinu so much that she has begun to like this mode of affection, and she now insists upon kissing her mother and being kissed in return.

Kinu is learning American customs so rapidly that Major MacCowen, who is in charge of the Indian building, says that her parents have good cause for alarm.

The health of the baby is perfect, while she appears delighted with the persons who visit her.

NO INCREASE IN SALARY FOR JEFFERSON GUARDS.

Colonel Kingsbury Says the Men Are Satisfied With $50 a Month.

The Jefferson Guards will not receive an increase in salary. They will continue to receive $50 a month and their lodging until the World's Fair is ended. These facts were stated positively by Coloner Kingsbury, Commander of the Guards, yesterday.

"I have read in the newspapers about alleged complaints on the part of the guards," said Colonel Kingsbury, "but these complaints have not reached me. In a large company of men there is bound to be a few who will find grievance, but so far as I know the Jefferson Guards are so far as I know the Jefferson Guards are satisfied.

"If there is a Jefferson Guard who isn't satisfied with his position, he is at liberty to quit. We have hundreds of applications from good men, who are anxious to work for $50 a month."

Colonel Kingsbury announced yesterday that 150 men would be added this week. This will make $60 men for the opening. The commanding officer is facing a serious predicament, for the present force fills the doesn't know how he can furnish lodging to the new men.

The commanding officers conferred with President Francis and Director of Works Taylor yesterday regarding furnishing ad-

The commanding officers conferred with President Francis and Director of Works Taylor yesterday regarding furnishing additional quarters for the Jefferson Guard, but it is said that the Exposition officials would make no promise nor offer any consolation to the guardsmen.

Captain George Vidmar of the Eleventh Cavalry reported to Colonel Kingsbury yesterday. He will have command of one of the companies, Captain Thomas Franklin, a commissary officer in the United States Army, was an arrival at head-quarters yesterday. Captain Franklin is now in charge of the commissary, at West Point. He has come to St. Louis to make arrangements for the visit of the West Point cadets, who will come to the Fair May II.

RUINS FESTIVAL HALL TINTING. Heavy Downpour Greatly Interferes

Continued rains yesterday seriously af-fected the work on the World's Fair grounds and buildings, the road-making forces especially feeling its adverse effects. Notwithstanding the fact that nature seemed to have set her face against the great efforts to have the Exposition finished on time there was practically no cessation, and the great force of men on the grounds continued at work wherever possible.

Hall. Chief of Mural Decoration Millet had just completed the tinting of the cell-lings in the structure, and the water played havoc with the calsomning of the drome, causing the colors to run bally.

The making of many of the Exposition roadways had progressed sufficiently for the top dressing of red "gumbo" ballast to be placed on them, and this would have been done vesterday but for the heavy rains. It was considered useless to dump the ballast on them, as the downpour would have washed it away and it would have been labor and material wasted.

AUSTRALIA WELL REPRESENTED.

port Heavy-Weight Pugilist. A. E. Watson, representing the Australian merchants who are to participate in the World's Fair, arrived in St. Louis yesterday. of Australia, he gives some time to pugilism.

"My visit here," said Mr. Watson, "Is to promote Australia's interests at the Exposition, but I am thinking seriously of bringing over to this country George Johns, one of our celebrated Australian pugilists. Johns fights at 14 stone tabout 186 pounds), and I think that he can whip any one in this country. I am quite sure that he can put any of your pugilistic lights, with the exception of Jernies, out of the business, and I dare say he can give the champion an interesting tussle."

Australia made no appropriation for a World's Fair exhibit, but its leading business men made up a fund among themselves, and as a consequence Australia will be well represented in the Agriculture, Liberal Arts, Manufactures and Forestry, Fish and Game divisions.

WINISTER NOW JEFFERSON GLARD.

The Reverend Frank J. Binnehard Becomes One of Kingshury's Men. The Reverend Frank J. Blanchard of Saline, Mich., has been appointed as a Jefferson Guard. He is a graduate of Kalamazoo College, an ordained minister in the Baptist Church, and during the last four years he has been engaged in nissionary work. The Reverend Mr. Blanchard wanted to see the World's Fair, and not having the means to pay the expenses of an ex-tended visit, secured, through F. B. Smith, President of the Michigan Commission, a place under Colonel Kingsbury. The minister is 3 years old and 6 feet

NATIVE CATTLE-Boof Steers-There wa but a moderate supply of 2.500 reported for the day, which was about 800 lighter than the cor-fesponding day last week. The proportion of matives was but little different, and a small supply at that, the day's total being not far above 1,500 head. The market did not move along as smoothly as was expected, with Chicago having but a moderate supply, and the five-point total for the day showing but 27,800 head, against 58,500 last Monday and 42,500 two head, against 58,500 last Monday and 43,500 two weeks ago. Enjerts were out in very good season, but were not very aggressive on the start, out before long three was a very healthy, active tone, and neavement resulting on common to medium steers such that said at 13,504,75, with prices showing strong to live higher. There was very little uneveness on this class. The good to choice steers sold slowly, and while some strength developed on the 5.25 kinds, the good grades, as a rule, were quoted no better than steatly.

MULES-Opening mule receipts were very small. Only one load of commission mules arrived, a very unrepresentative run, and it was hard to make any estimate of the market with such a light suppi; available. The dealer reported doing a little trade in big mules, and in turn were withing to buy of the good big kinds. Three of four loads of railroad mules were bought to go to Canada. Mule quotations:

Rise and Fall of the Rivers

RIVER NEWS.

Memphis Little Rock Vicksburg Shreveport New Orleans

EDWARD H. BOWIE,

Heavy rains have fallen over Southern Iow hours. Dangerous flood stages are indicated for the Missouri and tributaries east of Kansas tity within the next 48 hours. The danger line at Giasgow, Boorville, Hermann and St. Louis will be reached and passed within the next 24 bours, and the river at these points will con-tinue to rise for several days, but as yet no definite crest stage can be forecast. At St. Louis the river will continue to rise rapidly, and precautions should be taken to guard against a 35-foot stage by Thursday.
